

Nathaniel Winsor House Tour

Photos by Fran Nichols

Marcia Wilhelm and Anne Henning (l) chat while Susan Taylor admires the Palladian window on the doorstep at the DR&HS preview tour of the newly acquired Nathaniel Winsor House on Washington St.

Duxbury Clipper, Wednesday, February 18, 1998

The Winsor House has many magnificent architectural features including the bullfinch staircase and gilded hall mirror.

Dorothy Newton descends the graceful bullfinch staircase in the historic Nathaniel Winsor House.

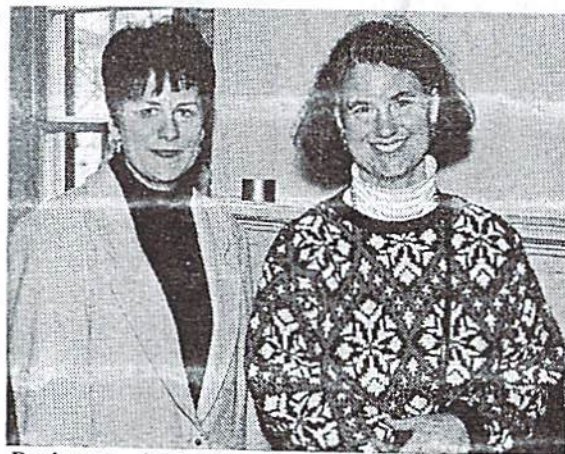

Historical houses - NAMED, M-Z

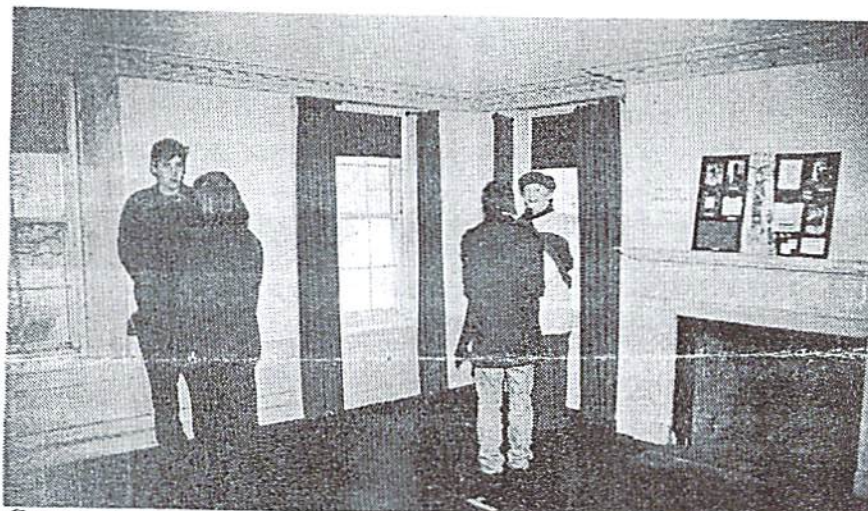

Olga Rothschild was in charge of the guest book and volunteer sign up sheets at the DR&HS Open House on Feb. 8.

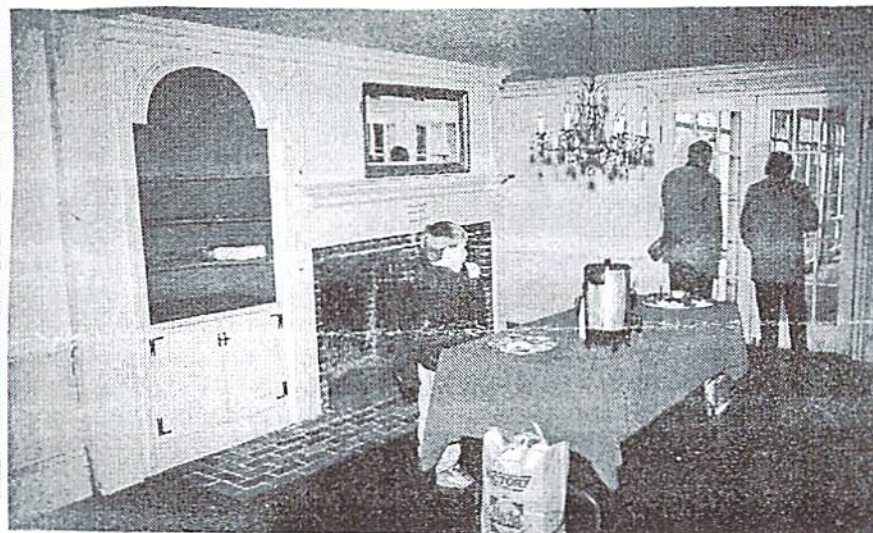

Ken Johnston, treasurer of the DR&HS and Chairman Judy Hall discuss future plans for the historic Nathaniel Winsor House during the tour of the 1807 Federal period home.

Designer Catherine Lanuto of Catherine Lanuto Interiors and Marty Fuchs of the DR&HS steering committee. Lanuto is one of the designers participating in the Showhouse and Garden Tour.

Guests of the DR&HS inspect the gracious rooms of the Nathaniel Winsor House. Leonard's Antiques of Seekonk will decorate this parlor for the Showhouse and Garden tour May 30-June 20.

Gunnar Schettler samples a cookie in the dining room during the DR&HS viewing of the historic Nathaniel Winsor House.

Susan Jannetty helps out at the Duxbury Rural & Historical Society's preview tour of their newly acquired home, the federal style building and former residence of shipping magnate Nathaniel Winsor.

A sunny room on the south side of the Nathaniel Winsor House. Designers from Boston, South Shore and Cape Cod will enliven Winsor House, the house and grounds for a Showhouse and Garden tour May 30-June 20 to raise funds to restore and preserve this landmark.